City launches Havana Street survey on mobility recommendations

AURORA, Colo. – The city of Aurora is encouraging anyone who uses Havana Street to take a survey on recommended strategies and improvements to address mobility needs for pedestrian, bike, transit and automobile travel on this major corridor.

This survey is targeting those who were unable to attend the last virtual public meeting in February on the Havana Street Corridor Study or who experienced technical difficulties taking the survey during the meeting.

The survey includes access to a strategy map developed to identify the strategies and various recommended improvements.

The deadline to complete the survey is March 19. To access the survey, go to AuroraGov.org/Havana and click on the Take Survey button.
